

Virtual WOW Virtual

Women of Ohio Wesleyan

NETWORKING | MENTORING | GIVING

WOW Session #1:

Know your value and elevate your voice to deliver an impactful and memorable presence and learn to lead by influence.

Panelists include:

Amy Kimball '05, CEO at Boston VA Research Institute

Against the odds, Amy Kimball graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 2005 with a BA in English and a History minor. Growing up experiencing great academic struggle and the self-doubt it created, she didn't believe she was college material; but OWU invested in her. After barely scraping by her first year, an OWU psychology course helped her discover an undiagnosed learning disorder—the catalyst that would change everything. In the years following graduation, she began a personal transformation to rebuild out of a past overshadowed by failure and understand her ADHD as a strength rather than flaw. In 2017, she became CEO of the Boston VA Research Institute (BVARI) and in 2019, she completed her MBA at MIT Sloan School of Management—an accomplishment she never saw coming growing up. Now as she begins to tell her story and how it shaped her unique leadership perspective, she has discovered the power of vulnerability in building strong cultures and the impact of her tenacity in driving high performing organizations, and that leadership is not one-size-fits-all. In this session, she will share her personal story with the aim of helping spark others' journey in finding and embracing their authentic self.

Racquel Mason P'23, executive vice president and chief marketing officer for Elanco Animal Health

Racquel Harris Mason serves as executive vice president and chief marketing officer for Elanco Animal Health.

Racquel brings more than 25 years of general management and consumer marketing experience developing holistic business strategies, effective communication campaigns and robust innovation pipelines. Her recent roles include serving as senior vice president at the Coca-Cola Company for the McDonald's Division and vice president, Coca-Cola™ and Coke Zero™ brands. Earlier in her career, Racquel held positions of increasing responsibility in brand management with Abbott Laboratories, Johnson & Johnson and Procter & Gamble .

Julie Clemo Tutkovics '92, executive vice president, chief marketing and communications officer, Huntington National Bank

Julie Tutkovics is Executive Vice President, Chief Marketing and Communications Officer for Huntington National Bank. Tutkovics is responsible for all corporate marketing activities, including branding, data and analytics, corporate sponsorships and customer communications across all segments. She oversees all regional marketing activities delivering the Huntington brand locally to the eight-state footprint. She also directs corporate communications which includes all internal and external communications, public relations and media relations. Prior to joining Huntington through the merger with First Merit, Tutkovics served as Executive Vice President, Chief Marketing Officer, at First Merit. Her career in banking also included serving as First Vice President, Director of Product Development at New York Community Bancorp, Inc. (formerly AmTrust Bank), and in a variety of marketing and product leadership roles at Citizens Financial Group (Charter One, Citizens Bank, and RBS Americas brands), Fidelity Investments and KeyCorp.

Tutkovics earned her undergraduate degree in International Business/Economics from Ohio Wesleyan University. She is on the board of Destination Cleveland, where she leverages her marketing expertise to promote the greater Cleveland region, and is also on the board of the Footpath Foundation. Tutkovics also serves on the Alumni Board for Ohio Wesleyan and is a member of In Counsel with Women. She is the former President of the Recreation League of Cleveland and a former board member and vice president of the Executive Committee of University Hospitals Rainbow Babies & Children's Hospital. She is a former board member of both the American Endowment Foundation and the Junior League of Cleveland. Lastly, she served on the board of deacons for The Federated Church. Julie resides in Chagrin Falls, Ohio with her husband Brian and their two children.

Hilary Quinn '19, equity capital markets analyst, Morgan Stanley

Hilary is an Equity Capital Markets analyst with Morgan Stanley in New York City. Within the equity capital markets division, she covers companies in the Power & Utilities space, Telecommunications & Media as well as most recently the Healthcare space and helps companies raise equity capital in the form of initial public offerings (IPOs) and follow-on equity offerings. She is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan's class of 2019 with a major in Finance Economics and minors in Accounting and History. On campus, she was involved in the Economics Management Fellows program, Accounting Fellows program, and held leadership roles in Delta Gamma.

Moderated by, Natalie Doan '03, vice president of university advancement, Ohio Wesleyan University

Natalie oversees the University's Alumni Relations, Development, and Career Services teams while supporting the strategic objectives of University Advancement. She is responsible for working with loyal alumni and friends to ensure the progress and success of the ongoing $225 million Connect Today, Create Tomorrow campaign.

Natalie joined Ohio Wesleyan in October 2012 as a development officer for planned giving and became director of donor relations in October 2014.

Natalie earned a B.A. from Ohio Wesleyan University with a double major in Politics and Government and Psychology. She earned a J.D. from Capital University Law School and has been a licensed attorney in Ohio since 2006.